Salvatore Pablo Lucia (center) and Herbert C. Moffitt attend a clinical pathology lecture given by Jesse Carr in the late 1930s.

Historian Gert H. Brieger, MD, PhD, will present the first annual Benjamin Lieberman Lecture in the History of Health Sciences on Wednesday, October 17, at 4 p.m. in Cole Hall. Brieger, who now is the William H. Welch Professor of the History of Medicine and director of the Institute of the History of Medicine at Johns Hopkins, was UCSF professor and chair of the Department of History of Health Sciences until July 1984.

Brieger is now engaged in writing a history of the UCSF School of Medicine and has chosen for his topic: " 'Make No Mistake of It.' The University of California School of Medicine: A Tale of Two Sites." The quotation in the title is from a letter by Herbert M. Evans, former chair of the UCSF Department of Anatomy, discussing the academic implications of locating a medical school on an academic campus or at a remote urban hospital.

The Lieberman Lectureship is endowed by family and friends in memory of the late Oakland internist, who died in April 1984. Lieberman, who loved music and had a strong interest in the history of medicine, became a friend of Brieger through the Bay Area History of Medicine Club, and donated several rare medical books to UCSF and UC-Davis libraries.

The lecture will be preceded by music played by several family friends. A reception will immediately follow the lecture in the History Room of the library. The lecture and reception are free and open to the public.

The campus community is invited to attend a memorial service in honor of Salvatore Pablo Lucia, MD, ScD, on Monday, October 22, at 4 p.m. in Cole Hall.

The service will include reminiscences by his friends and a showing of a documentary film on his life. UCSF faculty making presentations are: Nicholas L. Petrakis, Dean Rudi Schmid, Otto E. Guttentag, Joseph B. Wheelwright, Edwin B. Boldrey, Maurice Galante, Piero Mustacchi; and Marilyn Reed Lucia, his wife and UCSF clinical professor of psychiatry; and Phyllis Q. Edwards, Department of Public Health.

Lise Deschamps Ostwald, wife of UCSF professor Peter Ostwald, will present a piano interlude during the service. A reception will follow in the UCSF Faculty Club.

A member of the campus community for 55 years, Lucia was widely recognized as a pioneer in preventive medicine and headed campus preventive medicine programs for some 26 years. Among his many achievements were the establishment of the first rare blood type research classification laboratory in the West and the amassing of a UCSF wine library containing thousands of books and papers on the positive physiological effects of wine.

Lucia was the author of some 200 scientific papers and eight books—seven of which were on the subject of Ruth Harnar, EdD, has been appointed the First Lucile P. Leone Distinguished Professor in International Nursing.

A missionary nurse with the Christian Church in New Delhi, India for the last 41 years, Harnar will be at the UCSF School of Nursing for the entire fall quarter and will give the Leone Lecture entitled "Forty Years of Primary Care in India," on Friday, November 9, from noon to 1 p.m. in Room N 721.

The professorship honors Lucile P. Leone, former coordinator of international students and visitors, who is one wine, including Wine as Food and Medicine; Wine and Your Well Being; Alcohol and Civilization; and A History of Wine as Therapy. He was one of the founders of the SF Wine and Food Society in 1035 and the Society of Medical Friends of Wine in 1939.

Lucia graduated first in his UCSF medical school class of 1930, even though he never attended high school. He rose rapidly through the UCSF ranks to become the school's youngest full professor, was the first editor of the school's alumni bulletin in 1934, and was the major designer of the school's prestigious Gold-Headed Cane award.

In 1968 Lucia became a professor emeritus of medicine and epidemiology and international health, a lecturer in the history of health sciences, and the medical research director of the California Wine Advisory Board. He died in March 1984.

The School of Medicine has established an endowment fund in Lucia's honor in order to create the Salvatore Pablo Lucia Professorship in Preventive Medicine. For further information on the fund call x5685.

The United Way Campaign at UCSF will be held Monday, October 29, to Friday, November 9. Increased participation by both staff employees and faculty again will be emphasized.

Contributions can be made as a lump sum or by authorizing monthly paycheck deductions to benefit any one of the United Agencies; campus-related programs such as the UCSF Child Care/Study Center, the foster grandparents program, or Koret Family House; other needy programs such as the SF AIDS Foundation.

The Faculty Wives will hold their first monthly meeting on Wednesday, November 7, with a brunch at 11 a.m. in the Faculty/Alumni House. Lee C. Branstool, vice president of Dean Witter Reynolds, will speak on investment opportunities. For further information call Marjorie Campagna-Pinto at 921-6646.

The Faculty Wives also are seeking contributions to their Student Loan Fund, one of the largest non-federal sources in the UCSF financial aid program. Those wishing to contribute to the fund should make checks payable to the Student Loan Fund, and send them to Mrs. Malcolm Holliday, 101 Montalvo Avenue, SF, CA 94116.

of the nursing profession's most influential leaders. It is awarded annually to a prominent candidate who has made major contributions to international nursing and who "will provide expert guidance to faculty and students in the building of nursing knowledge."

Leone retired from UCSF in 1982, after serving as Regents Lecturer in 1966 and as coordinator for international students and visitors for six years. She is best known, however, for her numerous and far-ranging contributions while holding high administrative posts. She is credited with helping to establish close ties between the federal government and the country's hospitals and nursing schools.

PG&E has awarded the campus $250,000 for participation in the company's Pilot Project of Maintenance Assistance to Non-Profit Institutions.

The check was presented at a luncheon on Friday, October 12, to Chancellor Krevans, Vice Chancellor-Business and Fiscal Services Erick Erickson, Physical Plant associate director Guy LeBreton and engineer Chuck Charlton.

The purpose of the pilot project was to demonstrate that maintenance of mechanical equipment pays for itself by reducing energy consumption. UCSF was selected to receive funds for the maintenance of Long Hospital and the Health Sciences research towers.

PG&E will continue to monitor maintenance and measure energy savings.

Youth suicide is on the increase. In the last two decades suicides among young people have increased threefold, according to the National Center for Health Statistics. Today's youth suicide crisis will be discussed at a symposium on Friday and Saturday, November 2 and 3, at the Hilton Hotel, SF.

Sponsored by Langley Porter's Continuing Education in Mental Health and Behavioral Sciences, the program is designed for mental health professionals, teachers, school counselors and administrators, and all others concerned with the youth suicide problem.

The symposium will include lectures, panel discussions and workshops addressing early diagnosis, management and treatment of those at risk.

For further information call x77-256 or x77-554.

David G. Nathan, MD, the Robert A. Stranahan Professor of Pediatrics at Harvard, will present the 15th annual Aggeler Lecture on Tuesday, October 16, at 11:30 a.m. in Carr Auditorium, SFGH. He will speak at medicine grand rounds on "The Pathophysiology, Prevention and Treatment of Cooley's Anemia."

The following day, Nathan, who is chief of the Division of Hematology and Oncology at Children's Hospital in Boston, will speak at UCSF medicine grand rounds on "Treatment of Bone Marrow Failure," in Cole Hall from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m.

The prestigious lectureship honors the memory of Paul M. Aggeler, MD, UCSF professor of medicine and internationally recognized authority in the field of coagulation, who died in 1969. Aggeler is particularly remembered for his discovery of coagulation factor IX and for his many contributions to hemophilia research.

Russell DeVreugd has been appointed a Regents' Lecturer in the School of Dentistry. A dental technician for the past 20 years, DeVreugd is "an excellent example of a non-academic who has distinguished himself among academics and professionals," according to Malcolm Jendresen, professor and chair of restorative dentistry.

Since 1967 DeVreugd has owned his own dental laboratory in San Rafael and is certified in dental ceramics. An active guest lecturer in the UCSF Division of Fixed Prosthodontics since 1969, he has collaborated on and contributed to the popular textbook Dental Laboratory Procedures, and has produced two dental training films for the National Association of Dental Laboratories entitled, "Posterior and Anterior Crown Contours" and "Porcelain Contouring and Color Modifiers."

DeVreugd will be on campus lecturing and providing technical assistance to dental students one day per week through March 1985.

A Tay-Sachs Carrier Detection Program will be held in the Millberry Union Board of Governors' Room on Tuesday, October 30, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Members of the Northern California Tay-Sachs Disease Prevention Program will administer a simple blood test to any interested non-pregnant person under 18 years of age. The test, which is free, is not available through private physicians nor part of the premarital exam; individual results will be mailed.

Tay-Sachs Disease is a recessive inherited genetic disorder found primarily among persons of Jewish descent. It causes destruction of the nervous system resulting in rapid deterioration of physical and mental capabilities. When both parents are carriers of the Tay-Sachs gene, there is a 1-in-4 chance that the child will be born with the disease.

For further information on the testing call 658-5568. The testing is sponsored on campus by the Reproductive Genetics Unit and Hillel.

UCSF researchers are studying a new treatment which may cut back significantly the incidence of osteoporosis—bone mineral loss—which affects some 15 to 20 million Americans.

The long-term study will determine the effectiveness of a new treatment—ADFR—which promises to both halt bone loss and replace bone.

Osteoporosis is characterized by loss of bone mass with associated fractures, usually of the spine, hip or wrist. While bone fractures are not in themselves life threatening, osteoporosis can cause death because of complications from the disease. The disorder primarily affects women past menopause.

Women not older than 75, who have not had a menstrual period for a year or more and have evidence of osteoporosis, are needed for the study. For further information call Rita Yee at the Bone Clinic, x1449.

Applications now are being accepted for the Cancer Control Science Associate Program (CCSAP). The primary purpose of this new program, sponsored by the Division of Cancer Prevention and Control, National Cancer Institute, NIH, is to attract qualified individuals from a variety of health science disciplines into the field of cancer control research.

Up to five individuals will be accepted as "science associates" for a three-year period, two of which will be spent at the NCI working directly with individual preceptors on ongoing cancer prevention and control projects, and the other year at one of the NCI-supported cancer programs located throughout the US.

Those eligible must have:

- an MD, DO or doctorate in an allied or public health profession, biomedical or behavioral science, or equivalent,
- a minimum of one year of postdoctoral training or experience, including familiarity with the basic fundamentals of scientific research,
- academic professional excellence supported by official transcripts and four letters of reference.

To obtain program details send a self-addressed postcard to Ms. Nancy E. Garner, program coordinator, CCSAP, NIH/NCI/DCPC/CCAB, Blair Building, Room 4A01, Bethesda, MD 20205, or call (301) 427-8788. Application deadline is January 2, 1985. Qualified individuals are requested not to send letters, CV or transcripts until after receiving the information packet.

New officers of the Friends of the UCSF Child Care/Study Center are: Farrell Thomas, president; Catherine Gilliss, president elect; Helen Johnson, secretary; Miriam Gould, MD, treasurer. New members of the Friends Board of Directors are: Betty Austin, Deshika Hine, Jeanette Katz and Shirley Reece. Lucy Ann Geiselman has resigned from the board.

He will be responsible for working with the departments in the areas of curriculum evaluation, development & coordination. Thomas M. Christie, professor, stomatology, School of Dentistry: Appointed associate dean for academic personnel, School of Dentistry. These two positions are part of the school's academic restructuring of the position of associate dean for academic affairs.

Karen Akerson: Appointed assistant director, Hospitals & Clinics. Her duties will include management of the departments of Nuclear Medicine, Radiation Oncology, Respiratory Therapy & Social Services. She served most recently as an associate with the San Francisco firm, F.J. Grimmelmann & Associates, Inc., capital strategists & investment bankers.

Robert D. Gibson, associate vice chancellor, student academic affairs & registrar; lecturer, School of Pharmacy: Elected president, American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy.

Gretchen A.W. Gooding, assistant chief, radiology service: Named scientific program chair of the American Institute of Ultrasound in Medicine for 1984-85; and received the Institute's Presidential Recognition Award for outstanding contributions and service.

Jack Levin, professor, laboratory medicine & medicine; Dorothy Bainton, professor and David Phillips, associate professor, pathology: Invited to participate in the international meeting entitled "Megakaryocyte Differentiation & Synthesis of Platelet Proteins," held in St. Emilion, France, in October.

PUBLICATIONS

Edmond I. Eger, II, professor & vice chair for research, anesthesia: Editor and contributor, Nitrous Oxide/N_2O (Elsevier, NY, 1984.) Other UCSF contributors include Ronald D. Miller, professor & chair, anesthesia; Robert B. Layzer, professor, neurology; Owen R. Beirne, assistant professor and Richard A. Smith, associate clinical professor, oral & maxillofacial surgery, School of Dentistry; William K. Hamilton, vice dean & associate dean, postdoctoral & clinical affairs, School of Medicine.

Girish N. Vyas, professor, laboratory medicine; chief, Transfusion Service: Co-editor, Viral Hepatitis and Liver Disease (Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Orlando, FL, 1984).

Marsden S. Blois, professor, medical information science: Author, Information and Medicine: The Nature of Medical Descriptions (UC Press, 1984).

IN MEMORIAM

David L. Green, class of '49. A Stockton internist for 30 years and former chief of staff at San Joaquin General Hospital and Dameron Hospital, he received his BA from UC-Berkeley in 1945.

Applications for UC cancer funds for 1984-85 are due at UC-Berkeley by February 1, 1985. The funds provide small grants to new faculty to begin cancer research projects, to established investigators in areas of research other than cancer, to established cancer investigators to initiate studies in new areas and to investigators with established cancer research programs to expand their studies by adding a postdoctoral associate to their group.

Members of the Academic Senate are eligible, assistant professors are encouraged to apply. Applications also will be accepted from appointees at 50% or more full-time, clinical professor, adjunct professor and professional research series.

For further information and applications call the Contracts and Grants Office at x2977.
